AUTHOR STRIKES THE FORD OFFER

Government Ownership
Again Put Forward
by Senator Norris

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 10—The linking up of Muscle Shoals, Boulder Canyon and the Colorado river in a great public super-power system, functioning under government control, to produce and sell electricity, fertilizer and nitrate for explosives on a cost basis and for conservation and use of the nation's resources, are the aims of a bill introduced today in the senate by Senator Norris, republican of Nebraska, and in the house by Representative Keller, republican Minnesota.

Creation of a federal nonpolitical public service commission to cooperate with the various states, municipalities, districts and other political subdivisions in the development of this system with its members appointed by the president subject to the approval of the senate, is contemplated under the measure.

The duties and functions of the present federal power commission would be assumed by the proposed public service commission.

Survey Planned.
The first duty would be to make a comprehensive power survey of the resources of the nation and determine the most economical and efficient means of developing the super-power system.

A bond issue of $500,000,000 as a revolving fund to carry on the initial work and development would be authorized. Meanwhile, the eleven existing government owned hydro-electric power plants on the irrigation projects in the west and the government owned projects at Muscle Shoals constitute the nucleus of a public super-power system already to hand, to states a statement from the office of Representative Keller, which also declares "and hereby is a new and vital reason why Muscle Shoals must not be allowed to slip out of the hands of the government and be bartered away."

The statement continues:
"It is tremendously important, as one of the first units in the public super-power system."

"Besides these power resources, already in the government's hands, there are 2,318 municipality owned electric power plants in the United States which will fit in most advantageously as units of the public super-power system."

Revenue Board Is in Session Today

The Morgan county board of revenue is in session here for its regular monthly meeting at the court house. The board and its chairman, L. P. Troup, have taken up the matter of the losses to new roads now under construction throughout the county, as caused by the recent heavy rains. Marion S. Bingham, consulting engineer of the board, stated that a damage of between $2,000 and $3,000 had been sustained by the road building contractors and the county because of washouts.

Huntingtons Hunt Pirate Gold.

Mrs. Archer M. Huntington

Mrs. Archer M. Huntington, the former Anna Vaughan Hyatt, sculptress, and her multi-millionaire husband, world-famous book and art collector, have "mysteriously disappeared" from New York on their three-masted schooner yacht "Rosinante," and it is believed by their friends they are on their way to the Cocos Islands, in the South Pacific, where there is said to be buried $50,000,000 in gold stolen from the Spanish churches in Peru in 1820. Mr. Huntington, a great collector of Spanish manuscripts, is said to have learned the whereabouts of the gold from one of them.

STEAMER CAUGHT ON RIVER BRIDGE

A locomotive was used Sunday afternoon to retrieve the steamer J. F. Hager, which collided with the Southern railway bridge, across the river here, Saturday afternoon when the chain which controlled the boat's propeller broke, permitting the steamer to drift. The boat is the property of Henry Papenburger.

One of the barges carried by the boat was equipped with a tall derrick, which caught against the timbers of the bridge.

At the time of the accident, the steamer was engaged in picking up logs for the Bond Brothers, large saw mill operators.

The J. P. Hagler has been making regular trips on the river, engaged in freight traffic. Its principal work lately has been bringing sand and gravel from a point about 15 miles up the river to the local wharves, the material being used in local street paving work.

It was stated that the steamer will be in commission again in a few days.

"WORDS OF WISDOM" SUBJECT OF PASTOR AT CENTRAL METHODIST

At the Central Methodist church Sunday morning, the pastor, Dr. Jas. D. Hunter, preached to a large congregation, using as a subject, "Words of Wisdom." The Scriptural basis was found in Matthew 16:24, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me."

Dr. Hunter said that it has been said that the three greatest maxims in human philosophy tell from the lips of men of different nations living at different times in history.

"Socrates, the old Athenian philosopher, had one text" said the preacher.

"Every where he went he was talking about it. Among the artisans of

Loss of Blood Proves
Too Much for Victim

Leonard Dildine, aged 20 years, died at the Benevolent hospital here Sunday evening at 10:20 o'clock from a pistol wound said to have been inflicted in a Sunday morning shooting affray in Limestone county. Officers of that county reported Monday that no arrests had been made in the case, the responsibility for the shooting having not yet been fixed.

According to information received here, Dildine was in a buggy with John Page at the time of the shooting which was said to have occurred near the residence of Will Ham, in the Sugar Creek section of the Elk river neighborhood.

Dildine was shot through the neck, and it was believed the jugular vein was severed, the victim suffering greatly from loss of blood and despite every medical attention which was given him, he was unable to rally from the shock.

He is survived by his parents and three brothers and sisters. His father, Ned Dildine, a prominent farmer of Limestone county, was here today to take charge of the body. Funeral services will be held Monday with interment in the Sandlin graveyard.

Dildine, it was said, bore a splendid reputation and was declared to have had no connection whatever with the shooting which cost him his life.

Plans Are Made For Civic Drive

The Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce has begun setting up its greater chamber membership campaign with the purpose of starting active work as soon as W. J. Meininger, the recently elected executive secretary, arrives from Houston, Texas.

W. W. Rahm, president of the chamber, stated that Mr. Meininger is expected by the latter part of the week.

The classification of the people of the cities as recently completed by Miss Lilly Hinds, office secretary of the chamber is expected to be of great value in reaching all the business and professional men of the cities.

WALTER T. CANDLER & MRS. CLYDE BYFIELD

(Associated Press)
DECATUR, Ga., March 10—A jury early today awarded a verdict in favor of Walter Candler, Atlanta capitalist, in a $100,000 suit brought against him by Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, beauty contest prize winner. Mrs. Byfield was led, sobbing, from the courtroom.

The case was given to the jury early Saturday night, following a three-day trial. At midnight the jury reported it was unable to agree and asked for a re-charge. The court ordered the jurors locked up until early today. A re-charge was delivered at 8:17 o'clock and the jury deliberated only one hour before reaching a verdict.

REFORM SPEAKER MAKES ADDRESSES

Speaking Sunday night before an audience that taxed the seating capacity of both the Sunday school room and the auditorium of the Central Baptist church of Albany, under the auspices of the National Reform Association of Pittsburgh, Pa. on "The Mormon Menace," Mrs. Lula Loveland Shepard of Salt Lake City, Utah, declared the 20th amendment to the federal constitution should prohibit polygamy. The speaker said the constitution once prohibited polygamy in the "territories" but she said that since states had been made of all the territories, there was no national law against polygamy, and that in Utah polygamy was now being practiced and winked at.

Mrs. Shepard said she had been associated with Joseph F. Smith, lately president of the Mormon church, but now dead, in the fight for prohibition and that it took close to fifty automobiles to take the many wives and children of the dead leader to his last resting place.

Mrs. Shepard declared the coming summer would witness one of the most serious political seasons in the history of America.

The doctrines and practices of the Mormons were discussed at length by the speaker. Mrs. Shepard will appear in the Twin Cities for an address to women only at the Central Methodist church Thursday night; Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock she will speak at the Southside Baptist church, and Thursday night to men and women at the same church. Tonight Mrs. Shepard will speak at the First Presbyterian church to both men and women. Friday at 3:00 o'clock she speaks in Athens in the First Methodist church there to women only.

Twain Cities to Rival Broadway in One Respect

Folks entertaining stage ambitions formerly turned their eyes toward New York. It is no longer necessary, for the Twin Cities are to rival Broadway in that respect. Announcement was made today that A. R. McRea has been named production manager for Sudekum Brothers, of Nashville, and will organize three stock companies here this spring. One of the trio will play at Bowling Green, Ky., in summer stock, another at Nashville and the third will play at the Princess. Advertisements are being inserted in theatrical publications for players.

REVIVAL CLOSSES AT THE CHURCH OF GOD

The revival that has been going on at the Church of God for two weeks closed last night. Much good was done in this meeting. About thirty-five consecrated their lives to the Lord. Some of these were adults who had never been converted, some were backsliders and a few were sanctified. Beside the evangelistic phase of the meeting the cardinal doctrines of the Bible were clearly set forth.

On Friday and Saturday of last week there was held at the church a local gospel worker's meeting. Pastors and workers were present from Huntsville, Hartselle, Vinemont and other neighboring towns. In this meeting three sessions were held each day two in the morning and one in the afternoon. Some of the important subjects discussed in the meetings were: evangelism, cooperation in tent work, state meetings, Sunday schools, and the preachers education, library and study. This was the best meeting of its kind ever held by the Church of God in North Alabama.

Sunday afternoon at four o'clock the ordinances of the Lord's Supper and footwashing were observed. This service is always enjoyed by the church.

Rev. and Mrs. Duncan will leave Tuesday for Hartselle where they will hold another revival. After this meeting they will return to their home in Indianapolis for a short rest.

BAND REHEARSAL

The Albany-Decatur concert band will rehearse tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

MADDEN AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR UNIT ON WARRIOR RIVER IS PASSED BY HOUSE AS IT RUSHES TO FINAL VOTE

Another Victory Scored by Advocates of Ford Offer During Balloting in Early Afternoon of 6th Day of Hot Debate

OTHER EFFORTS TO AMEND THE BILL OF ACCEPTANCE ARE FUTILE

Members Shout "Vote, Vote" as Opponents
Continue to Seek Delay by Offering
Changes in the Original Measure
by Mr. McKenzie

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 10—The House at 3:30 p. m. completed reading of the McKenzie Muscle Shoals bill, clearing the way for a final vote on the measure at any moment.

Another vote, however, was demanded on the Begg amendment, which would enable the government to recover Muscle Shoals properties if Ford failed to live up to his contract in any particular.

Opponents of the bill made a last-minute move to eliminate the Madden amendment, providing for replacement of the power plant recently sold to the Alabama Power Company, by demanding another vote on that proposal.

A roll call on the Begg amendment, delaying the final vote on the bill.

WASHINGTON, March 10—Nearing a final vote on the McKenzie bill, which would authorize acceptance of Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals offer, the House today approved a section providing for replacement of the Gorgas steam plant.

This section was placed in the bill by the military committee and is known as the Madden amendment.

To replace the Gorgas steam plant, recently sold to the Alabama Power Company, it provides that a steam power plant to be included in the property which would be turned over to Ford, is to be built at or near Dam 17, Black Warrior river, with a transmission line to Plant No. 2, Muscle Shoals. The total cost is not to exceed $3,472,487.25, the amount paid for the Gorgas plant by the Alabama Power Company.

WASHINGTON, March 10—Demand for roll call vote on two important amendments to the McKenzie Muscle Shoals bill late today delayed a final vote by the House on the measure.

Those in charge of the bill, however, declared the House would be kept in session until the final vote was obtained.

Preparatory to a final vote the House eliminated from the bill 197 to 176 the Begg amendment, which made provision for recapture of the properties should Henry Ford fail to live up to certain conditions in regard to the manufacture of fertilizer.

Opponents of the bill declared they would seek to tack on a last-minute amendment to place Ford under provisions of the federal water power act and to limit his lease to 50, instead of 100 years.

Several days ago such an amendment was rejected.

WASHINGTON, March 10—Muscle Shoals legislation was given right of way in the house today over bills which ordinarily are considered on Monday.

Without a dissenting vote the house adopted a motion by Representative McKenzie, Illinois, to resume consideration of his bill providing for acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals. Those in charge of the measure said they were confident that a final vote would be reached before the end of the day.

House members opposed to the Begg amendment, adopted Saturday which would require Ford to surrender his lease if he failed to make good on his contract in any particular, planned to obtain a record vote on the amendment before a final vote is had.

The first amendment offered today proposed by Representative Wefald, farmer-laborite, Minnesota, was to fix the maximum net profit Ford would be allowed to make on fertilizer at five per cent, instead of eight per cent as provided for in the bill. Another effort to alter the terms of the Ford offer failed when an amendment by Representative Hill, republican, Maryland, providing that the eight per cent profit was to be based on equipment used in fertilizer manufacture, was thrown out.

Without discussion another amendment, proposed by an opponent of the Ford offer, Laguarda, republican, New York, was rejected. It would have required Ford to produce at least 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen at Muscle Shoals by 1926.

Mr. McKenzie said reports of farm shirking organizations had indicated that eight per cent was a fair maximum. He opposed the Wefald amendment, which was rejected.

The house also voted down an amendment by Representative Strong, republican, Kansas, to cut the eight per cent to six per cent.

Mr. McKenzie notified the house he was determined to speed up the vote and in an effort to do so would seek to cut discussion on various amendments. This announcement brought applause from advocates of the Ford bid.

A charge by Mr. McKenzie that the house members from several sections were being away by propaganda of power companies hostile to the Ford offer, brought Mr. Strong to his feet with a declaration that he, for one, was seeking to prevent the railroad-ing of the McKenzie bill through congress.

Mr. McKenzie contested that charges of leasing of Muscle Shoals to Ford would prove worse than Teapot Dome, as made on the house floor by some members, were inspired by interests fighting the Ford offer. He declared that in this way an effort was being made to alienate from Ford the good will of the farmers.

In reply Mr. Strong declared that he was not influenced by any propaganda, but believing that it was imperative that Ford be permitted to make only a reasonable profit.

A vigorous plea for acceptance of the Ford bill was made by Representative Rogers, democrat, New Hampshire.

NOT WHAT WE OWN, BUT THE USE IT IS PUT TO

In April, 1922, almost twenty-four months ago, invitations for bids for Muscle Shoals were asked by the Secretary of War.

There was nothing said at the time against such a proposal. It was generally thought, that in view of the war being over and the government having no immediate use for the Shoals, that it would be a good thing to dispose of the property. The government was selling its unused ships and various other possessions that might be called "war holdings," so why not sell the land and power site at Muscle Shoals? Nothing was said about the impropriety of selling the Shoals.

When after almost two years it was found no individual or company would make anything like as generous an offer as is Ford's, then, and not until then did the hue and cry arise against disposing of the Shoals property. It was only after Ford's offer was found to be the only real one, that such slogans: "Will the South Sell Its Birthright?" were heard. As if to appeal to the cupidity of the American people and a false sense of ownership, the same people who sat quietly by and were willing to see the Shoals project scrapped, are now enlarging on the great value of the Shoals property. The first and principal statement made by the minority report of the military committee, which was against the Ford bid, starts out as follows:

In our opinion it amounts to a gift of enormous property and industrial advantage to a private citizen from the resources of the United States. No government, and especially no democracy, can single out for special favor any individual or group of individuals without grave wrong, injustice, and scandal.

We do not think it just or wise or proper for a government to bestow largess upon individuals, no matter how great or good or beneficent or efficient they may be.

The Government has constructed works of tremendous value and importance at Muscle Shoals. They represent an investment of more than $135,000,000. This is the actual cost to the taxpayers of the United States.

Dam No. 2 and hydroelectric installation of 18 units will, when completed, be the largest dam in the world and represent an investment of more than $51,000,000.

Nitrate Plant No. 1 represents an investment of more than $12,000,000. It includes 1,900 acres of land. In addition to Nitrate Plant No. 1 there are large permanent substantial buildings for various smaller manufacturing purposes. Located on this tract are 125 permanent residences with all modern improvements; also 9 miles of good macadam roads; also 8 miles of sewerage; also 4 miles of standard-gauge railroads with necessary locomotives, cars, repair shops, etc. There are paved streets and water works.

The statement continues and the hotel property of the Government and other such holdings are held up for the dear people to admire, and to think of as their very own. But not one word was said in the same report how that property was wasting away. Not one word was said about the farms that are wasting away for fertilizers, that can be made at the Shoals by Ford. Nothing is said to remind that mere property is of no value unless it is put to its intended use.

In a word, after searching the whole orbit of the earth in vain for a man or a set of men to outbid Ford, and outdo him as a maker of fertilizers, his opponent then Ford asks to much for his services. When a great physician is needed, do well-meaning people stop to quarrel with him about his terms, while the suffering patient dies?

If the advice of a great attorney is needed, people pay his price and quibble not. The American people will not be deceived. They will not allow selfish instincts to merely own the Shoals, to overrule their reason, which tells them that not their ownership, but their right use is the supreme question concerning Muscle Shoals.

And as for the price Ford asks to bring the great waters at the Shoals to where their mighty power can be used by a needy world, the American people will answer with the terse remark: "The services of Henry Ford are cheap at any price."

DRAMA AND CLOTHES

Writing to a dramatic reviewer, a first-nighter wonders why it has never occurred to the critic what an important part clothes play in the theater.

"A well-dressed audience," he argues, "encourages actors and dramatists to greater and finer effort. If George Cohan, for instance, knew when he was writing a play that his drama was invariably to be presented before men and women in evening clothes, don't you think his work would be a little politer and therefore a little better? And isn't it true that if the actors in any drama saw before them an immaculately dressed assemblage instead of the usual motley crowd in pepper-and-salt business suits and brown woollens, they would do less mugging and horsing and play up to their audience instead of playing down to it?"

Not a doubt of it in the world, when you think it over. Why has this patent remedy been neglected, in all the frenzied efforts made of late to uplift the drama? Just put audiences into evening clothes, and presto! There will be a new race of Shakespeares and Molières and the stage will be deluged with Booths, Barretts, Irvings, Mansfields, Modjeskas, Malowes, Hampdens and Barrymores.

A sneaking suspicion that this may be merely subtle "dress-up week" propaganda on the part of the clothing industry should be dismissed as unworthy. Is it not true, in addition to the facts set forth above, that dressing for a show would rest the tired business man as much as the show itself? At any rate, it always seems to rest the tired housewife, no matter how much work it is to get into her evening gowns.—Tuscaloosa News.

NEGLECTED FORM OF AGRICULTURE PLANTING PEACH ORCHARDS A GREATLY

Peach growing has made several thousand farmers wealthy in middle Georgia. Not merely well-to-do, but rich. Around Fort Valley there is more of substantial agricultural wealth than any other region in the South. It all came from peaches.

The "Georgia Peach" has set a standard for excellence and flavor. Over there the land is rather sandy, and poor, and deficient in a good many qualities the Alabama soil has. Yet, perhaps the finest marketable peaches come from there, because these growers have made a science of growing this fruit.

That science may be explained in a sentence: it is the capacity for infinite care and attention to detail. The trees are trimmed so the largest measure of sunlight and air can get to all parts of the tree. They are sprayed in winter to kill San Jose scale, the great enemy of peaches in the South. They are sprayed again just as the blossoms petals are falling—the time when a certain fly deposits its egg in the embryo peach, which egg afterwards develops into a worm. They are sprayed 30 days later to ward off another variety of enemy, and one more spraying just before they reach maturity. In the fall the borer is killed by the application of chemicals around the roots of the tree. There is proper fertilization. And the result is wealth for the owners.

A news item records the setting out of an 800-tree peach orchard near Albany-Decatur. There are properties of iron and potash in the Alabama soil which make for superior coloring and flavor of fruit. We can grow better colored and flavored peaches than Georgia can produce—but it takes care and patience and skill. We have the experience of others to guide us. Our landowners in North Alabama are overlooking a great opportunity. They can coin gold from their poor hillside. —Birmingham News.

CITIZENS READY TO ELECT FAVORITE IN TUESDAY ELECTION

Is First Primary of Its Kind Ever Held in Alabama

ALL CAMPS ARE CONFIDENT NOW

Only Three Names Are to Appear on the Ballot Sheets

Citizens of Morgan county were ready today to cast their ballots Tuesday in the state's initial preferential presidential primary. The circuit court clerk, probate judge and sheriff recently named the election officials, at the request of the state democratic executive committee, and democratic committeemen are expected to act as returning officers.

The ballots will contain only three names, those of Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Hon. L. B. Musgrove and Hon. W. M. Dinsmore. For the first time the citizens will vote directly for the candidate, instead of for delegates, the winning candidate having the right, under the provisions of the new law, to name the Alabama delegation to the national democratic convention which meets in New York in June.

A light vote is generally predicted over this section. Inasmuch as there are but three candidates, it is not regarded likely that a full vote will be polled in any part of the county. The short ballot, however, will permit the results to be known earlier than is ordinarily the case, and it is expected that by midnight Tuesday, returns from over the state will have been received in such volume that the results will not only be definitely known, but fairly accurate estimates of majorities may be given.

TRIO IS CONFIDENT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 10—On the eve of Alabama's first preferential presidential primary, headquarters of the three candidates—Oscar W. Underwood, L. B. Musgrove and M. A. Dinsmore, were busy issuing statements which represent widely divergent views as to the results.

Underwood headquarters predicted an overwhelming majority for Underwood, while at Musgrove offices it was said a great victory for the "moral, Christian and temperance" forces of the state was about to be recorded. Musgrove claims to represent the "dry" forces in the state.

Dinsmore said he was for William G. McAdoo, notwithstanding McAdoo was officially keeping out of Alabama. He said he was certain McAdoo would not refuse the McAdoo vote in the national convention "if I win this race."

Observers were watching for any possible effect Senator Underwood's utterances on the Ku Klux Klan might have in the state, where the Klan claims a large membership.

Taking Her Back

After the young thing at the party had concluded her second encore the old lady leaned toward her and said: "Thank you so much for your songs, my dear. They took me back to childhood days on my father's farm. There were times, when you sang, that I could shut my eyes and fairly hear the old front gate creaking in the wind."

Panic Seized Madge as She Searched for Her Car.

PANIC, stark and nerve-racking, seized me as I realized that nowhere could I see the motor car which had brought me from Mrs. Bird's home, and which the driver had said would be waiting at the curb on Lexington avenue, somewhere within two blocks of the department store from which I had telephoned Alfred Durkee.

What could have happened? I asked the question frantically of myself when I had made my second trip up and down the crowded thoroughfares, trying to make my searching glances at the cars along the curb as unobtrusive as possible. The driver was no ordinary taxi man, but little Mrs. Bird's own trusted employee. He would not fail to keep an appointment with me unless something of the utmost importance had intervened.

Conscious that I would attract attention if I continued my parade up and down, I walked into the wide entrance of the department store, made a hurried trip down one aisle and up another, and emerged again into the sheltered space just outside the doors, where I flattened myself against the wall and waited, wondering what it was best to do.

Could the motor car have been an accident? Not a serious one, I told myself, answering my own question, or there still would be traces of the excitement which surrounds any unusual happening in the city streets. I had spent but a comparatively short time in the store when I had telephoned, and the routine of traffic had been the same when I left as when I entered. There must be some other reason, either as tragic as an accident or so important as a failure to find parking space, for I had observed a number of vacant places along the curb.

The Make-Believe Taxi.

I scored myself irritably for not having foreseen some such contrivance. I could have given the man directions to come to the Fifty-ninth street corner, and I had told Alfred Durkee to meet me. But he had no other instructions than to wait for me along this street, and I did not wish to leave the vicinity without finding out where he had gone. Luckily Alfred understood that he was to wait for me indefinitely on Fifty-ninth street. But a glance at my wrist watch told me that time, the most necessary of all commodities to me at this juncture, was slipping along with headlong rapidity. With a feeling that I would be hanged no matter which way I decided, I moved into the street, resolved to take the first taxi over to Fifty-ninth street, and come back to hunt up my own driver, after I should have seen Alfred.

I already had raised my hand to

THE HOME KITCHEN

Ways to Prepare Vegetables Which Surprise Diners

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking.

WHEN we get tired of serving vegetables in plain ways, we can always dress them up to make surprise dishes for special dinners. Only the best and most perfect vegetables should be used, and thought must be given when selecting them to get those of the most perfect and uniform size.

Celery Fritters.

Take the outside stalks of three or four bunches of celery, retaining the white centers for table use. Wash and scrape them and cut them into half-inch pieces, then boil them in slightly-salted water until they are tender. Drain and set them aside. Make a good fritter batter of a level cupful of flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking-powder, two level teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, one level teaspoonful of sugar and a salt-spoonful of salt. Add the beaten yolk of an egg, the stiffly beaten white, a quarter cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of melted butter. Beat all these ingredients well together. Add the celery, the juice of an onion and a salt-spoonful of curry powder. Drop the batter by spoonfuls into hot fat and fry the fritters a golden brown. Serve them with a good cream sauce.

Baked Cauliflower.

Trim and boil a firm head of cauliflower until it is tender but not soft. Drain and cool it and slice it in thin slices. Butter a baking-dish and dust it with fine crumbs. Put in a layer of the vegetable. Dust this layer with a few fine crumbs mixed with a little grated cheese, then spread with a little cold white cream sauce. Continue in this way until the vegetable is used. Dust the top of the dish with grated cheese and dot it with butter. Add to the cauliflower a half cupful of rich milk or cream, and bake.

Curried Asparagus.

Open and drain a large can of asparagus. Rinse it then cover it with water and bring it to the boiling point. Drain the asparagus thoroughly, lay it on toast and cover it with the following sauce. Melt an ounce and a half of butter in a pan and fry a thinly-sliced onion in it a delicate brown. Add a heaping teaspoonful of curry powder mixed with a tablespoonful of flour. Work smooth then beat in slowly a cupful and a half of good stock or broth. Stir the curry steadily and bring it to the boiling point, then add a teaspoonful of sugar and a fresh chopped tomato or one from a can. When the sauce is thoroughly smooth and blended, it is ready for use. Pour it over the asparagus and garnish the dish with parsley.

REAL ROMANCE

WINIFRED BLACK TALKS ABOUT The Wanderlust in All of Us

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THE rising generation is still in the power of adventurous ideas. Every little while one hears of some youth who has left home and mother for the career of a wild life on land or sea, and while one can but smile over the story still who does not in a manner sympathize with the youngster?

Just recently two California boys, thrilled by the movies, probably left their homes in the interior of the State and walked to San Francisco, where they made a bee line for the Pacific Ocean and slept the first night on the beach within sound of the thunders of the surf which batters the rocks and the shore near the famous Cliff House.

Disillusioned by the Cold

It was a cold night for the youngsters, and although they knew that China and India were right across the Ocean from them, they found themselves disillusioned by the cold and decided to take the road for Mexico, or some warmer clime.

They recalled all they had read about the fruits of the tropics and were especially interested in breadfruit, for they were hungry and fancied something in the bread line for breakfast. They would not beg, however, and spent the whole day walking across the hills through San Francisco until they saw the bay and steered a straight course for the Embarcadero.

Now began the inquiry about the nearest and shortest road to Mexico, and this soon led to counter queries about themselves and their intentions, and soon their romance ended in being put under the care of the Juvenile Home while the Police asked after their parents and arranged the details for their journey back home.

The boys considered this to be an ignominious journey, and although their ages were but twelve and ten, respectively, and as they had armed themselves with an automatic and a .38-caliber pistol, it seemed to them as if they ought to be treated with more respect. They had duly equipped themselves with new names, but parents recognized them without difficulty and that was the last blow to their pride.

The adventurers are now at home and the objects of interest to all of their school companions. It is feared that they do not give all of the incidents of their journey exactly as they occurred, but they feel entitled to some satisfaction after their disappointment.

The Longing for Adventure

At school the map has been marked for their benefit with the facts as to China and its distance from the United States, and Mexico has not been forgotten, either. The boys think if they could have reached Mexico there might have been a chance for them to prove heroes in the war going on there and their feelings can be imagined when they are called upon in class to tell the geographical facts about Mexico.

Who has not some sympathetic feeling with these boys? Who has not fancied the relief of a journey into a strange land with all of the romance of perfect strangeness in fruits, flowers and, above all, people?

To children the school, the home and all the familiar streets of the home town often get tiresome, and the youngster longs for change and adventure.

And so it is with us grown up children, do not forget.

You Must Give Thought to Beauty of Your Mouth

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

Lucrezia Bori

THE beauty importance of the mouth is an item that many women think of from time to time, but that few women cultivate by continual beauty care.

They are much more likely to spend time rubbing cold cream into their cheeks and massaging their scalp and brushing their hair, than they are to lavish beauty care upon their mouths. And still, when we stop to think of it, all of us know that our mouths are of the greatest possible importance. If you realized just how much your mouth counts in averaging up your sum total of beauty, I'm sure you'd spend more effort caring for it properly.

I say effort instead of mentioning time as a factor in caring for your mouth, because the actual time spent is negligible. The effort must be made in thinking along proper lines so the curves of your mouth will reflect gentle thoughts rather than harsh ones.

Do you realize that a network of nerves and muscles surrounds your lips? Their action changes with every expression and thought that you register, and for this reason your mouth is truly an index to the thoughts that go on within your head.

Therefore the expression that is brought to your lips most often is the one which gradually comes to predominate. If happiness is wont to rest there, your mouth is likely to have a happy lift at the corners, and this pleasant expression endears you to others.

No one likes to have a person expressing habitual gloom about them often. If your mouth turns down at the corners, giving away the fact that you are given to brooding and unhappy thoughts, people will naturally turn to someone else for company—someone whose happy expression makes them more pleasant to have around.

This does not mean, mind you, that a perpetually grinning person has a lovelier mouth than someone whose features are more often in repose. The most beautiful mouths are not those that are given to a grin that never wears off. And the mouth that expresses gentle humor may not often break into a real smile, but the lurking suggestion of a smile that plays around the corners of the mouth makes you want to know what its owner is thinking of, for you feel sure they must be pleasant thoughts and that you'd enjoy them too.

Of course the natural shape of your mouth has somewhat to do with its beauty. A medium mouth, one that is neither too large nor too small, with lips neither extra full nor extra thin, measures more exactly to beauty standards. But a mouth of this shape which registers a sour or unhappy expression is not nearly so lovely as a mouth less perfect in its natural lines, but moulded more into the beauty shape by the thoughts which influence it.

Don't twist your mouth unnecessarily. Let it follow its natural inclination to shape itself according to the thoughts that you think—and these you can influence along beauty lines if you will.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, MARCH 11.

A very quiet day is the augury based upon an entire absence of lunar figures in this day's horoscope. Things may be expected to move along in the routine manner in a business way, but in social or affectional matters there may be very lively developments. It is urged that the utmost regard for the conventional order be preserved.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a routine year in business, but may have a lively state of affairs in other departments of life. Regard for the conventions is urged. A child born on this day will have a rather quiet career unless otherwise by the hour of birth.

YOUR HEALTH

Parents Should Be Healthy to Expect a Healthy Child

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,

United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IT is a great thing to have a good start in life. The other day I saw a frail little child, the survival of twins, immature at that. At birth this boy weighed but two pounds. Without a vigorous body to begin with, the parents had a never-ending struggle to keep the baby alive and to promote his growth with advancing life.

What the baby will have to contend with, depends, in the first place, on the parents. Healthy parents beget healthy children. This is the general rule, but, of course, intervening and accidental causes may impair the physical welfare of the offspring of perfectly normal parents. But it is a pretty safe rule that ancestral health is of vital importance to the baby and guarantees his physical prosperity.

More important than anything else, the blood of both parents must be untainted. It must be pure because of moral living. It must be pure because of right eating and right habits of living.

The seven or eight months before the birth of the baby are of vital importance. What the mother eats, how cheerful and calm she is—all these things are fundamental to the welfare of the little one.

The next matter of importance is the sort of treatment the baby has at the time of his birth. Carelessness or ignorance applied now may ruin his future. Out of every thousand babies born seven are cripples. Too many are blinded by lack of care at birth.

It is a crime against humanity to permit the physical neglect of mother and baby at this critical period. No community can be called civilized unless it offers means for the decent treatment of the expectant mother and child. If private enterprise does not supply it, then the public must find a way to care for these important members of society. A skilled doctor and a good nurse are essential to every locality.

Hurried or undirected childbirth is responsible for much misery in this world. This is a matter of concern to the entire community. Alms-houses and institutions are filled with the victims of neglect at birth.

If anybody in the world is in need of advice and instruction it is the young mother. For her own sake she needs them before and after the birth.

One of the hopeful signs of the times is the growing readiness to talk about these matters. The greatest privilege in the world is the joy of motherhood. We are not prone to keep our joys to ourselves and certainly this one deserves to be talked over with the doctor or some other informed person.

The right advice at the right time will save heartaches and sufferings, sufferings which may continue through a lifetime.

Reports from the office of Mrs. A. H. Irons, of the local federal weather bureau, made today, show that the Tennessee river here is now falling and that the gauge is standing at 16.4 feet.

It is reported that the temporary bridge will have to be rebuilt before work can be resumed on the steel bridge.

AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agents Say

The cast which appears in "Three Wise Fools," King Vidor's first Goldwyn picture, which is coming to the Princess theater today and Tuesday is one of those remarkably capable casts which have come to be associated with Goldwyn pictures. The film was adapted from Austin Strong's successful comedy-drama by King Vidor, who also directed it.

Eleanor Boardman, who made such a striking success at "Remember Sled-don in Rupert Hughes' "Sauls for Sale" is featured in the role of Sydney Fairchild, a young woman who, upon the death of her mother, was left to the care of three crabbed old bachelors who had been unsuccessful suitors for the mother's hand. Miss Boardman lends vivacity and charm to the role and acts with intelligence and finesse.

The "Three Wise Fools" of the title are played by Claude Gillingwater, William H. Crane and Alec Francis. Gillingwater is the actor who created the part of Findley in John Golden and Winchell Smith's stage production of three seasons ago, when it had an all-year run on Broadway. He brings to the screen characterization the same homely and human comedy characterization so popular with the public. The role is just as good a one for Mr. Gillingwater's screen work as was part of Pop Groat in "Remember Sled-don." In the flash-back sequence show the "three wise fools" as youths, C. Biddle, Jr., plays Findley; Greig Hale, Trumbull; and Raymond L. ton Dr. Gaunt. Martha Mattox, Fred Butler, Charles Hickman, Fred Easton and William Haines are also in cast.

BILLIARD CHAMPION WINS DIVORCE.

Mr. & Mrs. Willie Hoppe and Children

Willie Hoppe, world's champion billiard player, shown here in his home in happier moments with his wife and two children, has been granted a divorce in New York, naming Edward M. Edner, a salesman, as corespondent. Mrs. Hoppe, 32, is a sister of Raoul Walsh, film director, and George Walsh, movie headliner.

Moulton News

Dr. John H. Irwin was buried at the city cemetery here Thursday after funeral services at the Baptist church in the afternoon. Dr. Irwin had spent all his life here the place of his birth. He was considered one of the best informed men of the county and was well liked as a physician and as a man he leaves many friends. He was fifty-two years of age. His one sister, Mrs. G. K. McGregor lives in Hartselle, his two brothers, Dr. Price Irwin, in Moulton and E. B. Irwin a business man in Birmingham.

Jury term of county court convened Monday in Moulton and through many cases were called a large number were continued till a later session. It brought many farmers and others from various parts of the county to town among the out-of-town lawyers were S. A. Lyon of Decatur, G. O. Chennault of Albany, W. W. Callahan of Decatur and Will Chennault of Russellville.

Field days have been set for Lawrence county at Moulton and at Courtland; while each is for the county as a whole, the one at Moulton is especially for the schools of the upper valley and the one at Courtland for those of the lower valley. At Moulton the event occurred Saturday, March 8 and at Courtland, Friday, March 14. Athletic contests will be awarded and prizes and school exhibits of various types will be judged and given awards.

The heavy rains of last week have delayed the farm work just beginning and will prevent the sowing of as much oats as planned in many sections. Preparations for cotton planting exceeds that of the past few years possibly and especially is this true in the amount of fertilizer being purchased, the farm bureau has been instrumental in getting reduced fertilizer prices and this has encouraged the purchase of larger quantities.

S. L. Morrow, county agent is spending the week in and around Moulton and reactionary farmers who are interested in betterment of crop conditions; he has some interesting work begun among the adults and boys at Chalybeate school district where a thriving community club exists.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new $4,000 school building being erected in the Mount Zion district on the road between Moulton and Decatur at the county line. For many years

Major League Clubs Aim to Stop Yanks and Giants This Year

NEW YORK—In a determined effort to stop the flow of baseball championships toward New York, which has had a monopoly of National and American League pennants for the last three years, major league managers have begun preparing their teams for the 1924 campaign. Fourteen of the 16 teams in the two major leagues have again selected southern training camps at which to boil out the excess poundage acquired during the winter lay off and to stag their annual battles between the rookies and regulars. The Pittsburgh Pirates are doing their preliminary work in California and the Chicago Cubs are back again at Catalina Island, off the California coast.

The training season will be of unusual interest to the fans because of the determination of John McGraw and Miller Huggins to get their machines in order to set records of four consecutive championships in their respective leagues and an equal determination on the part of their opponents to break the string of New York championships.

Manager McGraw has taken his charges to Saratoga, Fla., a new training camp where his principal task will be to reconstruct his shattered pitching staff. The National League champions expect the stiffest opposition from Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, with possible trouble from the St. Louis Cardinals. Pat Moran, manager of the Reds, has the advantage of starting the training season with what is generally regarded as the best pitching staff in the National League. He hopes to strengthen the weak spots of his out fit and with this accomplished the Reds would appear to have the best chance to succeed the Giants. The Pirates, however, must be figured at all times as dangerous contenders.

The New York Yankees start their training season with the championship lineup of 1923 intact. In addition to boiling away the excess poundage of his players, Manager Huggins will endeavor to rid them of excess confidence gained by reason of their victory over the Giants in the 1923 world series. In an early survey of the American League teams Tris Speaker's Indians and Ty Cobb's Tigers appear as the most formidable rivals of the Yankees.

There is much speculation as to what the Athletics will do in the coming campaign. They set a speedy pace for a time last season, but cracked under the strain of the vigorous campaign, injuries and unlucky breaks. Connie Mack had opened up his purse this winter and has obtained several players which will make his team one that will bear watching. The Philadelphia Nationals appear doomed for second division depths again.

Both Chicago teams have been strengthened for the 1924 race, and while several changes have been made on the two Boston clubs they remain as unknown quantities. Washington will enter the race under a new manager, Stanley Harris, the brilliant young second baseman, having been named to lead the team. Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, expects to work a big improvement in his team.

Florida is the most popular training state with nine camps. Alabama and California each have two, while Georgia, Texas, and Louisiana each have one.

The 1924 training camps are located as follows:

American League
New York	New Orleans, La.
Cleveland	Lakeland, Fla.
Chicago	Winter Haven, Fla.

St. Louis	Mobile, Ala.

"I cannot tell you how terrible I ached and how awful those pains in my limbs and joints were. I would begin to suffer and nothing helped me, although I was treated by five specialists and took all kinds of medicine."

"I read in Dr. Thacher's Almanac where several persons had got relief from rheumatism by taking Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, so I tried a few bottles. It sure ended my trouble and I am doing all my household work."

MARCH 10

On March 10, 1903, the Panama Canal treaty was favorably reported by the committee on foreign relations. The United States had paid the French company, which had taken over the Panama Canal project and had failed after a good lot of work had been done on it, $40,000,000 to pay them for the work that they had done. By the treaty we were to pay the Columbian government $10,000,000 bonus and annual rental. We wished to have this treaty with Columbia because we had entered upon the construction of our greatest and most permanent public work and we wished it to be possible for our government to display its flag upon its own property. Under the existing conditions the emblems of sovereignty were all Columbian.

SLEEPLESSNESS

Virginia Lady Says That Many of Her Long-Suffered Ills
Have Fled Since She Took Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I can sleep good at night now, something I have never done before in my life," says Mrs. Deane Hawks, of 712 Prospect St., this city, "and it is due to Cardui."

"I was always nervous and tossed when I should have been asleep, but since I took Cardui it has strengthened me, and my general health is so improved that many of the ills from which I have suffered for years have fled."

"I used to go to bed tired and, when I would get up in the morning, I was still tired. Now I feel like doing a day's work in my garden or in the house, and I owe all this good health to Cardui, for I had suffered for years until I took it."

"I had had female trouble for years and once, for six months, I was flat on my back. I am glad to recommend to other women a medicine which has helped me."

If you are nervous and run-down in health, suffering as Mrs. Hawks describes above, it is probable that Cardui will greatly help you. Try it.

AN OASIS OF GREEN IN CANADA'S WINTER

Why go south for the leafy winter? Ask the wise Canadian who knows what delightful winters are mated out to the British Columbian coast and its two fine cities, Vancouver and Victoria. Cities that grow more popular with tourists each year. Canadians and winter visitors to Vancouver need not sigh for southern seas, for surf bathing is a mid-winter sport on the Pacific coast. The Christmas-day dip and swim is a feature of that holiday. The picture shown above, was taken at Vancouver on Christmas Day, 1923, and depicts about twenty members of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club who enjoyed a frolic in water more invigorating than cold.

This metropolis on the Pacific coast of Canada has not advertised its winter swimming attraction, but its many beaches make it an ideal summer resort and its temperate climate makes it a favorite with tourists twelve months in the year.

Golf is played the year round on the three fine courses of Jericho Country Club, Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club and Vancouver Golf and Country Club, while Victoria, just across the Gulf, affords further opportunities for knocking the little white ball around at Colwood Golf and Country Club, Uplands Country Club and Victoria Golf Club.

Motoring is also a pleasant winter recreation in and around these cities. Miles and miles of superb motorways, long stretches of them running along the lovely seashore, radiate in many directions. Roadside camping sites equipped with brick stoves add an attractive feature to motoring on the Pacific coast.

Roses at Christmas-time and colorful gardens of hardy flowers make one forget that it is January, while the social life to be enjoyed at Hotel Vancouver and the Empress Hotel, leave nothing to be desired in the matter of cuisine, comfort and luxury.

Hartselle News

The ceremonial and banquet given by Pythagoras Lodge No. 199 K. of P. on last Monday night, was one of the most enjoyable features staged here for a long time. The banquet was staged in the old First National bank building on Main street, and the plate luncheon which was served on that occasion was prepared by the W. M. S. of the Baptist church. Sixty four plates were served to the members and their invited friends. The Harmony Six orchestra rendered music during the progress of the banquet, immediately following after, Past Grand Chancellor Hugo Black, of Birmingham, delivered the address of the occasion which was a gem, his subject being Fraternity and Friendship.

After the banquet the members repaired to their Castle Hall where eight candidates were in waiting, and were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Past Grand Chancellor, T. M. Dix, of Decatur was also present and added much to the exercises of the evening by his splendid interpretation of the degree work. Another visitor from Decatur was E. D. Meadows.

Past Grand Chancellor, Hugo Black presided during the initiatory service, and the boys all said "they never saw better work done in a Castle Hall."

Judge Bascom B. Brown, of Cullman was also present, and took an active part in the degree work.

The banquet and work at the lodge marked a new era in local pythian circles and the order received new impetus for the work which lies ahead.

FIRE FIGHTER GIVES FACTS TO THE PUBLIC

"For 2 Years My Stomach Was Out of Fix and I Was Alarmed by My Condition," Says Andrew Groeschner.

Only men physically fit and mentally alert can obtain positions in city fire departments, and the necessity of keeping themselves active and vigorous in order to render maximum service in battling the great destroyer makes it imperative that they use every precaution regarding their health. Among the hundreds of fire fighters throughout the country who have taken Tanlac to keep their health and strength built up is Andrew Groeschner, 6 St. Joseph St., Mobile, Ala.

"For two years," says Mr. Groeschner, "my stomach was so out of fix that I would bloat all up after meals and have cutting pains around my heart that alarmed me. My nerves were undone, I seldom slept well, always felt tired, and gradually went down in weight."

"Tanlac sharpened up my appetite so I could eat like a house afire, with never a sign of indigestion or pain afterward. My nerves are alright now. I sleep like a log, and have gained ten pounds in weight."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million Bottles sold.
